

How Much Is The Fear of Speaking Up Costing You?

▶ Are you letting the fear of speaking up hold you back in your career, business or relationships?

▶ Are your valuable ideas a well-kept secret because you lack the confidence or speaking skills to get your point across?

▶ Do you feel frustrated that you're not representing yourself or your business as well as you could be?

Weak communication skills could cost you lost sales or promotions, misunderstandings and conflict.

Like most people, you may leave as much as 30% of your power behind in every conversation you have, costing you lost sales, lost opportunities and lost promotions.

Whenever you think you could be judged or rejected for what you say, hold back from speaking out, or procrastinate from facing a difficult conversation ...You lose in terms of money, self esteem, stress and worry.

The bottom line is people don't buy your product or service. They buy you.

Your voice either conveys your confidence or betrays your insecurity. If you have doubts or concerns about your services or yourself, it shows up when you speak.

Prospects quickly see a lack of confidence as a sign of incompetence so they place their trust elsewhere in business relationships they feel they can count on.

How many more phone calls, meetings, days, weeks, months or years will you be at the mercy of your fear of speaking up?

How long will you allow success in your career, business, and relationships to be undermined?

You may be surprised to hear...
